

Warehouse Worker

As a kid, did you love playing Tetris (or are maybe even still setting high scores)? Was your Lego organized and colour coded? Did you choose carpentry over chemistry for your high school electives? And now, is your kitchen pantry alphabetized and you keep a mental inventory of all your condiments and spices, and rotate perishables by expiry date?

If that sounds familiar, you just might have the spatial awareness, attention to detail, and planning skills we're looking for. Being a Material Handler in our Shipping & Assembly group could be your next great gig.

You pay attention to the details, whether that's labelling inventory bins so your colleagues can easily find things or keeping our yard organized so truck drivers can safely access and unload products.

As part of our Warehouse group, which is in our Operations Division, what you do in a day has an impact on every other department. You make sure what our vendors supply meets our quality standards, and you make sure that everything our Production team builds is carefully assembled and packaged securely.

A day in the life of our Material Handlers varies from reading blueprints and specs to building the pallets you'll carefully (and creatively) pack with the stainless steel components on their way to communities across the globe. At times you'll be in receiving mode, and at times, you'll be in shipping mode. You're always in quality and safety mode though, regardless if you're picking parts and assembling items or verifying contents of deliveries.

You'll use all kinds of tools and equipment in your work, from computers and handheld scanners to power tools and even forklifts.

If you've completed grade 12 (or equivalent), have worked in a manufacturing and fabrication shop, ideally, and know your way around power tools and have experience in safely operating forklifts, we'd like to hear from you. We need a true team player: someone who will never utter, "That's not my job." and instead, wonders, "How can I help make this better?" - constantly seeking solutions, efficiencies and improvements.

We want to get to know you better—what motivates you, your communication style, how you make decisions—so ask all applicants to complete this short assessment by following this link to the Predictive Index. We promise: The Predictive Index is not an aptitude test, and there are no right or wrong answers.
